Get out in the fresh air and sunshine as much as possible.

The proper order is victory, then peace. We never can get victory after peace.

President Wilson more often than not does the thing which he is not advertised to do.

When Germany's peace "offer" falls flat, look for the quick capitulation of Turkey to the allies, and probably Austria also.

Chancellor Maximilian almost abjectly asks the United States for peace, while the kaiser struts about, clanking his sword, and prates about "offering" peace to the allies. The latter is playing a pretty little game of stage acting to impress the German people with his importance, and in the meantime his nation is crumbling.

When Serbia gets her territory back and then something to make up for the damages incurred, when Belgium is restored to its rightful owners and indemnified, when France is evacuated by the enemy and indemnity paid, when Russia is removed from the influence of Germany, when German forces are demobilized—then there will be time to talk peace.

Publisher Harry E. Parker of the Bradford Opinion will have the sympathy of all the newspaper men in the state in his bereavement over the death of his son, Lee Parker, in a naval hospital at Norfolk, Va. The young man had been working up in the printing business with his father and his sister at Bradford and was occupying a responsible position there when he answered the call to the colors, joining the navy and being assigned to the printing department.

Despite the persistent appeals of the fuel administration in Vermont to the people to cut wood for fuel, there is a supply of only 70,000 cords available at the present time, against a normal need of 702,000 cords. This shortage probably does not reflect any slacker sentiment on the part of the people of the state, but it does reflect the great lack of labor in the farming districts. The farmers themselves have been so busy with their crops that they have not had time to gather firewood. It is probable that the months immediately following the harvesting of the crops will be devoted to cutting wood for fuel, so that the supply will come much nearer the normal demand.

When the history of the war is written, no doubt a volume at least can be devoted to the participation of Field Marshal Von Hindenburg in the operations. Quite a considerable part of a volume has already been written about the "hero of the German people," more often in derogation than in praise during the past year. Whether or not it be true that Von Hindenburg and the kaiser have clashed in a dispute concerning the retreat of the German forces on a wide front at this time, it is true that the former must have suffered very much in the estimation of the Germans, who considered him as more or less omnipotent in war and who believed that he could lead them on to victory where the kaiser would fail. At the same time the kaiser never had much of a reputation for military capability among his subjects. Von Ludendorff, too, who was reputed to be in charge of the German offensives which started March 21, must have fallen in repute among the people of Germany, leaving them without a leader in whom they can place implicit confidence. That lack of confidence in their leaders is likely to prove very harmful to their morale.

GERMANY PUT IN NEW DILEMMA.

While there may be some disappointment among the American people that President Wilson did not reply to the German and Austrian peace advances by a flat statement that the central powers could have peace or not on the terms presented him in the famous 14-point note, that disappointment will wear away as the people come to a realization that Wilson is not playing the game as the crafty Teutons wish him to play it. He has countered in the traditional Yankee fashion by asking the other side what they are going to do and what faction of the German government is represented by the note which came from Berlin. This attitude will throw the weight of responsibility on the Germans and will not make it possible for the United States to be accused in future years of forcing the continuance of the war. It is squarely up to Germany. If Germany does not unreservedly say that she will immediately evacuate all occupied territory of her enemies and former enemies, that will mean the continuance of the warfare; and that, by the way, is something which is extremely abhorrent to the German people at the present time. Germany is placed on two horns of a dilemma and is going to be pricked terribly. Meanwhile the cessation of warfare, for which the German government hopes in panic-stricken fear, is not forthcoming; the allies are sweeping ever nearer to German territory. It is not likely that the United States and the allies will lose by the

WONDERFUL FOR THE PAINS OF RHEUMATISM

New Hampshire Woman Tells How Recovery Followed Building Up Her Blood.

Every rheumatic sufferer knows that pain is the one characteristic symptom of rheumatism. Whatever theory may be held regarding the cause of the disease, it is conceded that a remedy that will relieve the pain can be regarded as successful in the treatment of rheumatism. Less conspicuous than pain but more dangerous is the thinning of the blood that almost invariably occurs in rheumatism. In no febrile disease is this symptom more marked.

A remedy that not only relieves and banishes the pain but that also builds up the blood is an ideal one for rheumatism, because it rebuilds and repairs the ravages of the disease. Such a recovery is of a permanent nature. As long as the blood is thin and filled with impurities it is very difficult if not actually impossible to make any gain that will not be followed by a corresponding relapse.

Mrs. Harry Adams of No. 31 West Terrace street, Claremont, N. H., ascribes her recovery from rheumatism to Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. She says: "Many years ago I suffered an attack of rheumatic fever and have had rheumatism and stomach trouble ever since."

"I was in terrible shape and could not dress myself or do any work. My hands were swollen so badly that I could not use them at all. My stomach also was disordered and anything I ate distressed me."

"The medicine I took gave me but temporary relief, and at one time I thought recovery impossible. I read in a paper about Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and gave them a trial. The result at the end of one week was wonderful, and I kept on until I had taken four boxes. By that time the pain had entirely left me, and my food no longer caused me discomfort."

"Dr. Williams' Pink Pills certainly are a wonderful remedy, and I heartily recommend them to anyone suffering from rheumatism or stomach trouble."

The purpose of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills is to build up the blood. They do this one thing, and they do it well. They are for this reason an invaluable remedy in diseases arising from bad or deficient blood, as rheumatism, neuralgia, after-effects of the grip and fevers. The pills are guaranteed to be free from opiates or any harmful drug and cannot injure the most delicate system.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are sold by all druggists, or will be sent by mail, post-paid, on receipt of price, 50 cents per box; six boxes, $2.50, by the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y. A booklet, "Building Up the Blood," will be mailed free to any address upon request.—Adv.

sparring which President Wilson has indulged in. After that will come the time for a virtual ultimatum to the enemy.

Make the Most of the Apple Crop.
Most people know apples are healthful. But a great many do not know that they are among the most nutritious of fruits and that their value in this way is higher than that of many everyday foods commonly regarded as indispensable to our tables. One pound of raw apples has the food fuel value of 290 calories. Translated into everyday terms this means that apples have about three-fourths the nutritive value of potatoes and as everyone knows, potatoes are a solid and dependable food.

Without realizing the real food value of apples, however, people have nevertheless eaten them freely for hundreds of years—yes even back in prehistoric times apples were a common article of food. Scientists tell us that apples in the common form probably originated thousands of years ago in that part of the world south of the Caucasus and watered by the Tigris and Euphrates—where the garden of Eden is generally supposed to have enchanted our first parents.

America is now the leading apple growing nation of the world. This involves a great responsibility on us this year, for with food all over the world so scarce, it becomes almost a sacred trust not to let any of our apple crop go to waste.

In every home, which has storage facilities, as many barrels of apples as can be used should be stored as soon as the good winter apples are in the market. The windfall apples should be saved by drying. Cut out the bruised parts, pare, core and slice. Then drop into cold water containing eight teaspoonfuls of salt to the gallon, if a light colored product is desired. Leaving them a minute or two in salt water will prevent discoloration. Remove surface moisture, dry in sun or over stove until leathery and pliable.

juice of slightly unripe apples as a basis. Wash fresh mint leaves thoroughly. To 1 cupful of mint leaves packed solid, add 1 cupful of boiling water; set the mixture on the back of the stove, and steep it for 1 hour. Lay a piece of cheesecloth over a bowl, pour the steeped mint leaves into it, twist the ends of the cheesecloth and press out all the moisture.

To 1 cupful of apple juice add 1 to 2 tablespoonfuls of mint juice. If the mint flavor is not sufficiently pronounced, add a drop or two of mint extract. Use ¼ cupful of sugar to each cupful of apple juice, and boil the mixture rapidly until the jelly test is obtained. Just before it is poured into the scalded glasses, color it green with vegetable coloring matter. Early apples make the best apple sauce. here is a new way to sweeten and flavor the apple sauce and add more food value to the dish at the same time: 1 quart of apples, 1 cup seeded raisins, ½ teaspoon salt. Wash, quarter and remove stem and blossom end from apples; put on stove with ½ cup water. Cover and as soon as the apples get soft start mashing. When tender, mash through colander or wire strainer, return to fire, add salt and raisins which have been washed, dried and put through food chopper. Boil slowly 10 minutes. Dorothy Dexter.

Light the torch of Freedom.

It is flung to you by those who have laid down their lives for you on the fields of France. Betray not the trust they have paid for with their blood.

Support the boys who are fighting for you on land and sea and in air. Send to them five million more men.

Buy Liberty Bonds of the Fighting Fourth loan. Join the ranks. Buy bonds and more bonds. Buy Liberty bonds the way they fight for liberty—to the very last. Buy to make liberty secure!

The Hun is on the Run—Keep him going.

159 German prisoners were taken by Sergt. Brown. Two and a half million other American soldiers would take as many more.

Will you help them? Buy a Fighting Fourth Liberty Bond the first day—at any bank, cash or installment—and help feed and clothe and train our boys and get them Over There.

The First, Second and Third Liberty Loans made it possible to place the deciding army in the field. Now help them down the Hun!

Your Bond Is Here

We have just received a supply of Fourth Liberty Loan Bonds and can make immediate delivery against full payment.

However, if you cannot or do not wish to pay in full for your bond, you may pay according to the government installment plan or on our easy-payment weekly plan of $1 per week.

REMEMBER THIS—Your subscription for a bond on the $1 a week plan will be just as much appreciated by your government at this time as if you paid in full.

We are handicapped in the raising of this loan to a very considerable degree by health conditions, but we must raise our quota and show our government that despite this discouragement we are going to stand and be counted.

WHAT DO YOU SAY? Let us do all we can for the present to help the suffering here at home, and then let us pull our coats off and dig up our share of the "Fighting Fourth."
